Moravian College receives $385,000 grant for scholarships
The Donald B. and Dorothy L. Stabler Scholarship Fund will support students from central and eastern Pennsylvania who demonstrate financial need and academic promise. Students who receive a Stabler Scholarship will commit to making contributions to the endowment scholarship fund after their graduation in an amount at least equal to what they received.

Carlow & Point Park selected to participate in the Para2Teacher Initiative
Pittsburgh Public Schools said Tuesday that it found two new partners for a pilot program that aims to narrow racial disparities between students and instructors by helping classroom aides become teachers. The Para2Teacher Initiative offers selected paraprofessionals the chance to earn a two-year master’s degree in education online while continuing to work in the district.

Science Research Institute Expands to Albright College
After growing 817% over five years, Conrad Weiser’s Science Research Institute will expand to Albright College, offering Berks County families a more-centralized location.

Marywood University talks ‘Meatless meat’ and its rise in popularity
Diane DellaValle is a research dietitian and nutrition professor at Marywood University. She is impressed with the rapid growth in popularity of the “Impossible” and “Beyond Meat” brands. But that does not mean it should be a staple in every diet.

W&J discusses the health benefits of singing in a choir
Group singing is gaining popularity. While participation in church choirs is declining, more than 17% of adults in the U.S. participate in a choir of some sort, up from 14% in 2008. That’s about 1 in 6 adults, according to a recent study, by the service organization Chorus America.
Guaranteed admission to U of Scranton for Diocesan school graduates who meet requirements
Do you go to a high school under the Diocese of Scranton? The university and Diocese partnered up Thursday. If your GPA is over 3.0 and your SAT is a 1080 or better or ACT above a 21- the University of Scranton will let you in- guaranteed! Plus a $15,000 scholarship each year- minimum.

Harcum College focuses on children's dental health month
The Dental Hygiene Program at Harcum College understands the lasting value of preventative dental care to the health, self-esteem, and success of children. Those are some of the reasons why the college operates the Cohen Dental Center in Bryn Mawr to meet more of the community's needs for quality preventative care.